Companion in Attempt to Photograph Sacred Fountain
Badly Wounded.

REPARATION IS DEMANDED

By United Press.
TEHRAN, Persia, July 19.—Major Imbrie, American consul, was beaten to death by a native mob here Thursday. The Persians resented an attempt by Major Imbrie to photograph a so-called magic fountain of which the natives stand in awe.

An American who was with the consul was severely wounded.

Major Imbrie, who served as vice-consul in Constantinople, was married less than two years ago to Miss Catherine Gillespie of New Rochelle, N. Y., when she was directing the Near East Relief Relief orphanage in Constantinople.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Upon receiving official confirmation today of the killing of Robert W. Imbrie, American vice-consul at Teheran, Persia, the United States government prepared vigorous action to secure amends for the murder.

The first news of the killing was received by the State Department today from Imbrie's wife, who is at Teheran. Then official confirmation came from the legation.

Another American named Seymour, who was under arrest for conviction by a consular court, was with Imbrie and was badly hurt. The Americans were not upon an infuriated mob of natives when they attempted to take photographs of a number of sacred places seeking a rare before a sacred spot.

How to Broadcast
Campaign Speeches
Becoming Problem

By United Press.
NEW YORK, July 19.—Now that all three Presidential candidates have decided to make an appeal for votes by radio, the perplexities of the broadcasting stations have increased.

It is the first time in the history of campaigning that the air has been used to sharpen the public on party principles. There is no precedent for this year's campaigning and as a consequence there are no rules by which it may be carried on.

Radio officials point out, it is probable a meeting of broadcasting managers and representatives of the candidates will be called in order to formulate rules for the party speeches.

One broadcasting manager pointed out today that party leaders have simply announced they would campaign "by radio" and let the matter drop without consideration of the facilities. He said local politics are also to be broadcast.

Gubernatorial, senatorial and congressional candidates all are planning to make an exhaustive tour campaign, and without rules these various campaigns would create a jumble of hokum for the millions of listeners in

TRIO WANTED FOR FAYETTE ROBBERIES PUT UNDER ARREST

GREENSBURG, July 19.—Three men wanted in Fayette and Cambria counties for robberies aggregating $3,500 were arrested Friday afternoon by officers from Troop A of the State Police, after an automobile chase along the Mount Pleasant brook road.

In the county jail, arrested on suspicion, are Jim Piers, 27 years old, of 22 Pearl street, Pittsburgh; Jim Trapp, 28, of Luray and Steve Trapp, 27, of 432 Alley street, Pittsburgh.

Sergeant Hurdak and Privates Setles and Onko rounded up the trio. The officers, tipped off by Scotland police that the wanted men were heading this way, went out on the highway and passed a car in which three men of foreign appearance were riding. Something in the furthest air of the party made the troopers turn their car and follow. Immediately sensing that they were about to be taken into custody the man driving the car fled for all that it could go. The chase was a short one, and the men were placed under arrest.

Robberies continuing over several weeks, which are said to have been perpetrated in Fayette and Cambria counties are believed to have been the work of these men from Republic in Fayette county late last night positively identified the men under arrest as three who had been seen in Republic the day a robbery had occurred in that place. The Republic robbery, in which a foreigner lost $1,700, is said to have been staged last night. A week later three men are said to have robbed a house at Wilmore in Cambria county and to have made their get away with $700. Two or three days later, a robbery of $400 was reported from Vintondale in Cambria county. A foreigner, a foreigner at Melocort, Fayette county, had $300 stolen.

NATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL EXPERT IS COMING TO CITY

Prof. M. A. Honline of Pasadena, Cal., Will Speak Here
October 7.

PLACE NOT DETERMINED

Arrangement Made by President L. G. Hoover, President of Sunday School District on Learning Mr. Honline Would Be at State Convention.

Prof. M. A. Honline of Pasadena, Cal., one of the greatest Sunday school experts in the United States, will be in Connellsville on October 7 afternoon and evening. Prof. Honline is on the program cut day at the state convention, which will be held at Washington, October 8, 9 and 10. Through the efforts of L. G. Hoover, president of District No. 2 Prof. Honline has agreed to come one day earlier and give Connellsville Sunday schools something worth while.

This was done so that those who will not be able to attend the convention at Washington might have an opportunity to hear one of their leading speakers.

Unless present plans are changed the afternoon session will be more especially for officers, teachers and workers, although anyone may attend. The evening session will be for all who can hear him.

Those who have heard Prof. Honline will be glad of the opportunity to hear him again. He is described as a rapid-fire orator, giving home truths with a high caliber about their throats and their sleeves must extend to the wrist.

The place of the meeting has not been definitely decided upon but will probably be in one of the most centrally located churches.

A good musical program will be arranged for each session.

Censorship Hides Real Conditions in Brazil, Is Belief

By United Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 19.—The intervention of foreign powers in Brazil to protect the rights of the nationals was discussed by the Argentine press today. Italy and other European nations are expected to make immediate protests against the inability of the government at Rio de Janeiro to give assurance that the rights of foreigners will be maintained.

The Buenos Aires newspapers point out that the censorship which cut off news from Brazil has increased the apprehension of foreign interests and citizens. The vaguest kind of roundabout reports reaching Buenos Aires from Brazil indicate that the entire country is in turmoil. Sao Paulo is probably not the only state in revolt. Upheavals are reported to have occurred in Rio Grande Sul, Mato Grosso and Minas Gerais.

BOTH DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS MAKING A MISTAKE

In Giving Too Much Prominence to "Maneuver" of the LaFollette Movement.

EXHIBIT TOO MUCH FEAR

Over Possibility of Stormy Petrol at Wisconsin Throwing Presidential Election into House of Representatives. Acts as Boost for His Party.

By ROBERT T. SMITH.

Special Correspondent of The Courier.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A change in the attitude of the leaders of the two old parties toward the LaFollette movement in the last 24 hours has given the senior senator from Wisconsin a much more prominent position in the coming campaign. It is this sort of "strategy" on the part of the Democrats and Republicans is continuing that LaFollette will find them rendering him far greater assistance than he ever had any reason to expect.

Senator LaFollette has no thought of winning the presidency for himself. He has thought, however, of stirring up considerable trouble for both the elephant and the donkey, and apparently in this ambition he already is having notable success.

The Republicans now are taking the ground that the LaFollette movement is a "nuisance" to the country. The "nuisance" is the LaFollette bill, which LaFollette may obtain a sufficient number of electoral votes to prevent either Calvin Coolidge or John W. Davis from getting the necessary majority of the electoral college. This would throw the election of a president into the present House of Representatives. It has been figured that a deadlock would ensue there. Thus it would devolve upon the Senate to select a vice president who in turn would become president just as if there had been a death or other cause of vacancy in the office.

The Republicans further figure that the LaFollette strength in the Senate would go to Governor Charles W. Bryan, the Democratic nominee for president, rather than to General Clegg.

Accomplishments Under Harding and Coolidge Recounted by Kendall

Hughes Dominant Personality in Allied Muddle

By United Press.

LONDON, July 19.—Taking no part in the reparations conference but close at hand where Ambassador Kellogg and the American participants can consult him, Secretary of State Hughes was looked upon today by European statesmen as the possible dominating figure behind the scenes of this, the 16th Inter-Allied effort since Versailles to make Germany pay.

Secretary Hughes arrived in London to find the conference still deadlocked in committee stage—France and Britain disputing over the former's right to a free hand with Germany in case she is adjudged to have defaulted payments. The committee that is considered recommendations on this matter met today and reported progress but efforts of the Italian, Belgian and American members failed to reconcile the British and French viewpoints.

In an interview, Hughes reiterated he would take no part in the conference but said he was "making no attempt to conceal American interest in the experts plan." Hughes has arranged to meet Premier MacDonald and Premier Herriot, personally but informally while here.

It was understood that the French committee eventually decided to recommend to the full conference the adoption of Anglo-American safeguards under which an unofficial American Commission should be notified of any German defaults by chairman of the experts' commission in Germany. Coming to this progress it was expected that the full conference might be able to meet Monday or Tuesday when all three committees would be able to report.

Mr. Kendall announced a call to Republicans of the county to perpetuate the organization built up by the late Senator William L. Crow by going to the polls in November and giving their solid support to the party ticket. In his address he said in part:

"We are on the threshold of a great national political contest, which will determine whether the Republican party, brought into action by that great martyr leader, Abraham Lincoln, shall continue to guide the Ship of State or whether the reins of the government shall be transferred to other hands."

"Much has been said of the shortcomings of the party now in power, little of which is of much importance. However, critics have been silent on the achievement of Harding and Coolidge and the Republican Congress. After six years of Democratic mismanagement and incompetency in governmental affairs, the Republican party was swept into power by carrying both houses of Congress, two years before the expiration of the term of President Wilson."

"The outgoing Democratic Congress failed to pass the necessary appropriation bills which to carry on the affairs of our government. President Wilson was compelled to call the Republican Congress into extraordinary session on May 19, 1919 from which date a policy of retrenchment and reform was inaugurated by the Republican Congress."

On May 1, 1919, the national debt stood at $13,566,701,648.01, the greatest in the history of our country, a sum equal to $206 for every man, woman and child in the U. S. On July 20, 1924, the public debt was reduced to $21,301,501,055.76, a clear saving of $5,265,200,592.25 in less than five years through the work of a Republican Congress, thereby saving interest to our Government of $225,000,000 annually.

"But this is not all. We are meeting all the expenses of our government and are reducing the public debt more than a billion dollars annually, thereby saving in interest 45 millions a year. In the next 15 or 20 years under the policy inaugurated by Secretary Mellon, the great war debt will have been paid and our country will once more be on the high financial basis in her history."

"There are 20 billions of Liberty bonds outstanding which are held by millions of citizens in this country. These bonds have advanced from $5 to par, making a gain of over three billion dollars in value to their holders."

With all these reductions of governmental expenses there has been a marked lowering, of federal taxes. The present Congress has cut $235,750,000 off income tax payable this year, and about $475,000,000 payable next year. The last Congress reduced taxes for the year 1923 $102,000,000, showing an average net decrease of over two billions of dollars per year from what the expenses were in 1921.

"There was advanced to foreign countries during the World War, including accrued interest, nearly 12 billions of dollars, which indebtedness many of the Democrats in Congress urge that the United States cancel. However, the Republican Administration insisted that our nation be reimbursed for these loans, both as to principal and interest and up to June 15, 1924 Secretary Mellon received on account of principal $304,114,294.09 and on account of interest $255,836,478.16, amounting to $1,159,872,772.25. Great Britain and Finland gave a 1-2 percent gold bonds in full payment for principal and interest. While other nations have not given bonds for their indebtedness, they have paid large sums of money on account of principal and all except the U. S., Austria, Armenia and Lithuania, have paid interest on account. So you see that Secretary Mellon has accomplished a great deal in reducing the foreign nations in pay their indebtedness to this country as rapidly as financial conditions will permit."

"The credit of the United States under the greatest leadership of the greatest secretary of the treasury we have ever had Secretary Mellon, has Continued on Page Five.

LOWERED BILLION YEARLY

Addressing the Republican County Committee assembled at the courthouse in Uniontown this afternoon, Representative S. A. Kendall of Vintondale laid before the committee a mass of facts dealing with what the administrations of Harding and Coolidge have done toward reducing the nation's debt and putting the country on a solid footing financially, also what has been done for the service men of the World War and other struggles and what the government under Republican direction, is continuing to do.

Mr. Kendall announced a call to Republicans of the county to perpetuate the organization built up by the late Senator William L. Crow by going to the polls in November and giving their solid support to the party ticket. In his address he said in part:

"We are on the threshold of a great national political contest, which will determine whether the Republican party, brought into action by that great martyr leader, Abraham Lincoln, shall continue to guide the Ship of State or whether the reins of the government shall be transferred to other hands."

Albert Soisson Again Wins City Tennis Championship; Defeats Ed Dick in Finals

Contest for City Title Goes to Five Sets; Both Play Dazzling Games.

DOUBLES ALSO PLAYED

Albert Soisson, champion of the Connelville Tennis Association, today again won the title this year and took the first leg of a three-leg cup awarded as a trophy by the association, when he defeated Edward Dick, Jr. in the finals of the annual tournament. Five sets were played and each was a battle featured by the best tennis shown by either player this season.

Dick, with his strong back-hand stroke and placing ability, played Soisson hard but the little fellow came back gamely and never once seemed to try. His energy kept him in the running and in the final count he was on top.

Starting off in great form Dick garnered the first set before Soisson could get moving. The score was 6-1. In the second set, having "loosed," "Ab" straightened out and with better service and strokes managed to pull through 7-5.

From then on it was a battle royal. Dick kept his volleys to the corners and kept his fast little opponent trotting all over the court. But that never stopped Soisson. He kept sending his shot after shot back to the tail end of the attack. Dick won, 6-4. Soisson garnered the fourth, 6-3 and when he defeated Dick, 6-2, he took the title and cup.

Edward Dick and Frank Wright won the doubles final, defeating Paul Soisson and Reid Pendleton. The scores were 7-5, 2-6, 6-1, and 6-0.

Guy Decker and George Hall, who were to play Pendleton and Soisson in the semi-finals defaulted because of an injury to Decker's ankle.

The cup won in the tournament will be presented at a banquet of members to be held some time in August.

MT. BRADDOCK FAILS TO APPEAR FOR GAME WITH CAPTAIN OUTFIT

Teams will come and teams will go, but the Mount Braddock baseball team did neither last evening when it forfeited its game to the Capstan Independents by failing to appear for the scheduled game. Close to 500 fans had assembled to witness the game and the gate receipts had to be refunded when the team failed to show up. Manager Percy announced this morning to The Courier that relations between Mount Braddock and the Capstan team were automatically suspended by the latter's poor sportsmanship.

The Capstan team cannot afford to waste time with diversions in this community and the Mount Braddock team is expected to pull it out of the mire. "With baseball losing its hold in Connelville, some teams persistently help it to decline rapidly, whereas they should be endeavoring to pull it on to normal. We're through with Mount Braddock and teams that are of the same caliber are requested to keep their nooses out of paths of the reliable teams in the community."

Manager Percy received four letters requesting games for the date, but Mount Braddock was given the preference.

The Connelville Athletics will be the opponents of the Mount Braddock team this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The crack Mill Town outfit is planning to take the bacon home with it and will send Andy Koser, formerly moundman for the Connelville Independents and the Mount Braddock team, to the mound. McMoran will oppose him. Another reward crowd is expected to witness the game.

Change in Layton Club Management

There has been a change in the management of the Layton Club which has been put in effect the 18th. At their weekly meeting the following officers were named to replace the ones whose term has expired: Manager, Russell Miller; business manager, Doyle Prynn; field captain, Ivan Wilson; secretary and treasurer, Raymond "Don" Ryan.

The club at present has been going well and the pitching staff has been considerably bolstered by the coming of Roy Stittmull who recently left a (Newark) team against the Connelville team. In this game Stittmull showed a "world of stuff." With Stittmull, Stittmull and Edwards the club shapen up as a strong all-around team.

Clubs playing games should call or write Clyde Bryan, Layton Club.

HORSESHOE GAME HAS FAST HOLD AT VANDERBILT

Sport Never Before So Popular as During the Current Season.

LIBERTY CHURCH SERVICE

Special to The Courier.

VANDERBILT, July 18.—"Barnard golf" has taken a good hold here. Never before has the game been so popular. Four sides have been selected during the past week and the tenners are busy "twirling" the entire day. Three more sets of horseshoes will be put into service during next week. The sides are at the Presbyterian Church grounds, back of the old distillery, the lot near Dick List's barber shop and on the turf near the Vanderbilt Athletic Club.

Brynn Ambrose and D. P. McLaughlin were defeated three straight games by Joseph Darby and Michael Fonderoff yesterday at noon. Two games were 21 points, while the other was a 51 pointer. The winners have been challenged by Harry Snyder and Edward Pollock. The game will be played today. Later in the day Clyde Newmyer and D. P. McLaughlin defeated Bryan Ambrose and Michael Fonderoff, five games out of seven. The games were 21 pointers.

Accomplishments Under Harding and Coolidge Recounted by Kendall

been raised to such a high standard that the last issue of $122,045,500 cost of indebtedness, running six months at 3-4 per cent, was over-subscribed over 400 millions of dollars, whereas formerly the government was called upon to pay from 4 per cent to 5 per cent for money borrowed for government purposes.

"The tariff bill passed by the Republican Congress was one of the most scientific ever enacted into a law and has increased the revenue of the government $225,000,000 per year."

"The Republican administration has not been unkind to the services rendered by the World War veterans. It established a separate branch of the government, called the Veterans Bureau, and has appropriated for all the needs of the veterans over two and three-quarters billions of dollars for compensation, vocational training, hospitalization and insurance in the last five years."

"This Congress appropriated $3,000,000 for additional hospitals, $750,000 for a school for the blind, $540,000 for grave monuments for graves in Flanders."

"It also passed the bonus law which will give the World War veterans and their dependents over three and one-third billions of dollars, and the Johnson Reed bill which will give the veterans of all wars over 30 millions of dollars additional, who could not receive compensation under existing laws."

"The principal feature of the act is that it allows all World War veterans six years after the Armistice to file a claim in the case of tuberculosis and similar diseases which may develop during that period. It also grants free hospitalization to all veterans of all wars."

"The government has given hospital treatment to over 400,000 World War veterans, 23,000 of whom are now receiving hospitalization. It also has given vocational training to 128,000. It is giving 100,000 medical examinations every month and paying out, including Sunday, over $300,000 daily. It has already built over 50 hospitals for the World War veterans."

"The government has always been liberal to the defenders of our country. To July 1, 1921, it had paid in pensions alone to the veterans of wars $3,341,889,631, of which $1,841,889,631 was paid in pensions over six millions was paid in pensions to veterans of the Civil War and 110 millions to the veterans of the Spanish War."

"You have heard the Democrats yelling themselves hoarse regarding Taft's Dome and the oil scandals, but their ears are deaf to the gigantic war frauds and criminal waste of the people's money running into billions of dollars during Democratic control. Their cry against the oil scandals is a smoke screen to hide their monumental neglect and incapacity of administering honestly and patriotically the affairs of our government."

"Over 2,300 suits have been entered against the government totaling over a billion dollars for war contracts loosely and illegally entered into by the Democratic Administration. Four hundred eighty cases claiming over $5 millions of dollars have been decided by the court of claims, awarding less than three millions of dollars for the 38 millions claimed. There are today over 1,700 cases still pending, involving over a billion dollars. The Department of Justice has thus far collected $4,398,067.87 for money paid on fraudulent claims by the Democratic administration, and hundreds of criminal and civil suits have been entered to bring to justice the war fraud thieves and crooks."

"A great responsibility rests on the Republican party this year, in view of the fact that Senator La Follette is running as an independent candidate for President."

"It would be a calamity for the entire country if the patriotic and statesmanlike services of President Coolidge should be lost to the Nation. His administration has the confidence of all classes and he is beloved for his unflinching courage, his patriotism and his devotion to duty."

"This is no year to cast complimentary votes for candidates who are not on the Republican ticket, and I feel sure that Fayette that has produced an array of Republican statesmen not excelled by any county in the state will get the poll tax. November and give to the party headed by Lincoln, Grant and Roosevelt the biggest majority in the history of the country and thereby demonstrate that the matchless organization built up by the late Senator Crow, though he has been gathered to his fathers, still goes marching on."

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Talk How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Her Suffering and Restored Her Health

Momence, Illinois: "I surely can recommend your medicine to other women who have female weakness, as it has helped me very much in every way possible. I was working in a dining room in town, and sometimes I could not do my work; had pains in the lower part of my body and had to stay in bed. One of my neighbors told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for her, and it has surely done wonders for me. I hope all women who suffer will take my advice as the Vegetable Compound has done so much to bring back my vigor and strength. Mrs. Alexander E. Deschard, Momence, Illinois.

Over 121,000 women have so far replied to our question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent. of these replied "Yes."

That is 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

We are now showing a selection of new and authentic 1924 Fall patterns, and selections are most appealing and such as will meet with the approval of the most discriminating. They are shown in room and scatter sizes, in

No Car Like It!

42 horsepower! 50 miles and more an hour—hour after hour—without over-heating—without loss of power—without engine repair—without carbon cleaning!

And at the end of a long sustained high speed, your motor will be cooler, will need less water than any similar sized poppet-valve engine;—will need no repair, no tinkering with unseated valves. This engine's power curve keeps climbing up while the power of a poppet-valve car is dropping off. Furthermore, the Willys-Knight is entirely free from those engine repairs which make up 50% of the upkeep cost of practically all poppet-valve cars. It has no cams—no springs—to get out of order. A car you can keep season after season. Take a ride today.

"I'll drive there at once," Gerald promised.

He set Pauline down, as usual, at the gates of her villa. She scarcely stayed to say goodby, but her smile was more gracious and her manner a little kinder. It was obvious, however, that she was disturbed by his information. Gerald, however, thought he was at most times, felt a growing interest in his mission.

Arrived at the rooms, he walked straight through to the Cercle Prive, visited such roulette and trente et quarante tables, and strolled round the barcarat room. Seated next to the sculptor, at the most remote table, with a little crowd of people behind his chair, and with a great pile of notes before him, sat Monsieur Zubin. The Russian was betting in millions, apparently on some system, and with varying success. To all appearances, he had not changed his position, bathed or shaved since the evening before. There was an untidy growth of beard upon his chin, a bloodshot streak in his eyes, his collar and tie were crumpled; his hair, over-luxuriant at the best of times, was unkempt and disordered. Gerald leaned towards the sculptor, seated behind the sculptor's chair, under pretence of handing him a small stake.

"Monsieur gambler?" Gerald remarked, with an inclination of his head toward the man who was the center of interest.

The sculptor turned around with an expressive little nod.

"Yesterday he broke the bank," he whispered. "Today he can do nothing right."

"He is losing, then?"

The man's grimace was significant. Gerald watched his own stake creep away and trembled in a place behind the Russian's chair. In one of the intervals, he leaned over and touched him on the shoulder. The man took no notice. Gerald whispered in his ear.

"Madame de Pontiere awaits you at the villa."

Zubin for a moment remained perfectly still. When at last he turned around, his face was ghastly. With his strong arm, he pushed back some one who intervened.

"Who are you?" he demanded.

"I am merely a messenger," Gerald replied. "I know no more than that I was asked to give you that word if I saw you at the casino."

The Russian rose slowly to his feet, left one of the plaques to guard his place, thrust a great pile of notes into his pocket, and led Gerald into a corner.

"You have been spying on me. It is through you that Madame knows I am in Monte Carlo."

"On the contrary," Gerald reminded him, "you yourself wrote a note to her and dispatched it by messenger from Ciro's."

"This note was brought back—"

"The Note Was Brought Back—Madame Was Out," the Man Declared.

"Madame was out," the man declared. "It was an accident. That."

"One gathers that you have not been fortunate today," Gerald remarked, after a brief silence.

"That is my own affair," was the grim reply. "What I desire to know is how you became acquainted with these ladies to such an extent that they should appoint you as their messenger."

"I do not recognize your right to ask me questions," Gerald asserted, "but, as a matter of fact, my knowledge of them is of the slightest. Actually, I do not know them at all."

"I happened to have a few minutes' conversation with Madame de Pontiere, and I mentioned your winnings. You will remember that I saw a letter from you to Madame last night."

Monsieur Zubin sat for a moment deep in thought.

"Are you charged to deliver a reply to this message?" he demanded.

"Certainly not," Gerald answered. "I have not the privilege of visiting at the villa."

"I should think not," the other replied. "I wondered only whether you had been told to take a message to the bank here."

"That is very important follow," Gerald told him calmly. "You appear to have come from a country where messengers have ceased to exist."

The man laughed heartily.

"One puts off manners when one deals with spies and meddlers," he declared. "Get on about your business."

He walked back and took his place at the table.

Gerald left the room a few minutes later and strolled out into the square. He was in some doubt as to what he ought to do. Pauline had absolutely forbidden him to communicate with her in any shape or form, yet he had a conviction that Zubin's exploits in the casino should be made known to her. He strolled across to the establishment of Madame Lenore. Madame greeted him with a peculiarly knowing smile. He drew her on one side.

"Madame," he said, "you make gowns for Mademoiselle de Pontiere."

The smile disappeared from Madame's lips. Her face became impassive.

"It is true, madame," she admitted. "What of it?"

"Just this. You are doubtless in frequent communication with her? I have some slight acquaintance with Madame de Pontiere but I am not permitted to communicate with her. It is important that she should know that the Russian, Zubin, is gambling in the casino and losing heavily."

"A big man?" Madame asked quickly. "Almost a giant?"

"That is he," Gerald asserted. Madame turned toward the telephone.

"Demand the Villa Violette," she told the operator. "Say that I wish to speak to Mademoiselle de Pontiere without delay."

Gerald turned away.

Madame de Pontiere dismissed the servants with a little wave of the hand and looked thoughtfully for a few moments into the fire of pine logs which had been kindled in the grate.

"Pauline," she said, "Zubin is already four days late."

Pauline made no immediate reply. Her hand pointed to an easel which stood in a corner of the room.

"These people," she continued, "become abusive. Even Lenore has sent an account. You dispatched the telegram?"

"I dispatched the telegram," Pauline asserted, "but it was needless. Zubin is here."

"I have heard so," Pauline replied. "My information is very scanty but I understand that he had sent you a letter last night."

The pallor of the older woman's face seemed suddenly deepened. Her eyes glittered ominously.

"Zubin spoke of a note that had been brought and taken away," she muttered. "Tell me at once what you know, Pauline."

"I have no definite information," Pauline reiterated, "but I understand that he has been seen at the casino."

Madame de Pontiere sat like a woman who has received a shock. The shadow of fear was upon her face.

"You do not know Zubin," she growled. "If he once smells the atmosphere of that place it is like a deadly drug to him. And he loses! He always loses!"

She leaned over and struck a bell which stood upon a table.

"The car is in a quarter of an hour," she ordered. "Pauline, get ready. We must seek Zubin. If he has begun to gamble, he will go on to the end."

They drove first to the casino, where they explored only the Cercle Prive. From there they went to the Sporting Club, where there was still no sign of him. Madame de Pontiere became more hopeful.

"He is perhaps resting in his hotel," she said, "preparing to visit us."

"He would never come without sending word beforehand," Pauline reminded her.

They sat side by side on one of the settees, two rather lonely and disheartened women face to face with tragedy. Pauline saw Gerald in the distance and determined upon a bold step.

"Anat," she said, "there is a young man standing by the easy chair there, whose father lives at the adjoining villa to ours. He has once or twice offered me some small courtesies. He is alone and I am sure he would be glad to be useful. Let me send him to the casino."

"Show him to me," Madame de Pontiere demanded.

Pauline pointed him out. Her aunt sighed.

"One breaks a cherished tradition," she said, "but it must be done. I leave the matter in your hands."

On Using Your Nut

A BLUE SKY SALESMAN THIMMIN' A WIDOW.

"Two-tenths o' th' people go through this life without usin' th' nut," declared Tell Blakely today, "an' it's astounding how far some o' them get without ever drawin' on th'ir brains. Lots o' folk die at seventy-five with brains new unscuffed brains, brains that have just been cuddled up an' foreclosed for years, brains in th'ir original wrappers. In other words most people tackle all th' great transactin's o' life without stoppin' t' think, or if they do stop it's because o' cold feet, an' not thro' any exercise o' th' nut. Th' fellow that drives a car should have his nut at his knee tips at all times an' th' fellow that's importuned t' go int' somethin' where he kin double his $700 should consult his nut at once afore t' go, or water plug an' think. Some folks talk for hours without thinkin', or they'd stop in five minutes 't' cover dawked on me." I never once thought 'I never dreamed o' such a thing,' are all familiar expressions that come from people with dormant thinkin' apparatuses. Results have showed that th' average voter don't use his nut any more than th' widows who invest th'ir money. "I wish I'd thought," says th' fellow or woman who's lost everthin' "It never occurred t' me," is another common stock expression very popular with fellows who have missed rare opportunities or lost out on th' chance of a lifetime. We all go too fast an' bust int' things too freely. The sober second thought altho' comest mopey along after th' car's ditched, or th' mame's a mess o' marriage, or th' survivin' o' a lifetime have gone glimmerin'. Then for th' first time most o' us discover that we've got a nut. This would be some country if ever one used his nut instead o' lettin' a few glib, affable handshakers do th' thinkin'. For it's a fact that hardly anybody thinks. Pick up anybody an' try t' git his nut workin' an' see how you come out. He may say I never thought o' that before, but that's th' best you'll get. We don't believe a fellow ever thinks he'll play golf or walk home or just automatically neglects his work an' plays. Lots o' times if he'd used his nut he wouldn't play. He don't think t' go home for supper. Occasionally some fellow really uses his nut an' still shows poor judgment but that's due t' a faulty nut. However, he should be credited with thinkin' before he leaped. Life is filled with tight places an' at no time in all history was there ever an age like today's an age when we depend almost entirely on quick nut work lest we get skinned, or shot, or maimed—or poisoned.

Make Sure of Tomorrow

One never knows what tomorrow may bring. Your home and furniture may be yours today — by tomorrow it may have been destroyed by fire.

You owe it to yourself and your family to protect them to the fullest extent. If your property is not fully covered with insurance you are not doing your duty.

You should know the value of fire insurance protection.
